SEC Basketball Schedule Dispute To Be Reviewed

The Southeastern Conference Executive Committee will meet in Birmingham Wednesday to review a basketball schedule dispute between Kentucky and four other member schools, SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore said this week.

Moore said the meeting will be closed and he did not know if the committee will make any announcement following the session.

The committee last year ordered Kentucky to suspend its 1952-53 basketball schedule on charges the school had assisted athletes in excess of limits fixed by the conference.

The Wildcats, perennial conference champions, had scheduled games during the suspended season at Louisiana, Tulane, Mississippi and Mississippi State. The four schools want these home games carried over to next year, rather than play them at Lexington.

Kentucky contended the dropped games should be disregarded.

Dr. J. Hills Miller, president of Florida and conference president, is chairman of the five-man executive committee.

In April the four school threatened to boycott Kentucky during the coming cage season because of the schedule dispute.

A schedule was adopted earlier which called for the four schools to play at Lexington.

Kentucky's athletic director, Bernie Shively, said some time ago that Kentucky expressed no preference

Blazer Lecture
Should Draw Well

Varying attendance has marked the Blazer Fund lectures in the past, depending frequently upon announced subjects, the reputation of the speaker, and class assignments. Last semester's presentation of Diplomat Ralph Bunche, held in Memorial Hall because a larger audience than usual was expected, not only packed that auditorium and filled a studio at Radio Station WBKY but turned away many others who came to hear Bunche.

Monday night's lecture by Dr. T. Harry Williams should be a popular one on several counts. Dr. Williams, a young historian from Louisiana State University, has the reputation of being an entertaining speaker.

An authority on Abraham Lincoln, he has written and edited several books on that president. His announced topic, connected with the Civil War, will undoubtedly include material from this field of interest.

Also, what is generally considered the stronger intellectual makeup of the summer session should more than make up for the smaller student body total so far as attendance is concerned.

Seniors Requested
To File For Degrees

All seniors who expect to complete their requirements for graduation at the close of the summer term and who have not at a previous time made application for degrees, are requested to do so on Monday, July 6, or Tuesday, July 7. This applies also to graduate students who expect to complete their requirements for graduate degrees. All applications should be filed in Room 16 of the Administration Building.

As the Commencement lists are made from these cards, it is very important to file an application at this time.

Candidates for the bachelor's degree will be charged a graduation fee of $9.00. This will cover the rental of cap and gown, diploma, The Kentuckian and other necessary expenses. Candidates for advanced degrees, other than the doctorate, will be charged a fee of $20.00 which will cover the above with the exception of The Kentuckian and in addition the cost of the hood to be presented the candidate. The fee for candidates for the Doctorate is $25.00. Graduation fees are payable not later than the fourth day preceding the commencement which will be Friday, August 14.

Foreign Visitors Come To Campus For Ag Course

A delegation of 10 men from the Netherlands and one from France arrived in Lexington Monday to attend a two-week course in stock-feeding at UK.

The short course, arranged by E. J. Kilpatrick, assistant state agent in county-agent work, will include the feeding of cattle, calves, pigs and poultry, and the use in stock rations of distillery and brewery by-products, alfalfa and other legumes, bluegrass and pasture crops.

The visitors said they were interested in the University's tests of trace minerals, amino acids and antibiotics in feeding for meat and milk production.

The delegation came from Washington, D. C. and when the course is finished will go to St. Louis, Mo.

Marauding Dogs Kill Three Valuable Rams

Marauding dogs played havoc with several penned rams at the UK experimental farm Sunday night.

Three valuable rams being used in experiments of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics were injured so badly by the dogs that they had to be destroyed.

Four dogs attacked a pen of rams quartered near the old beef barn and chewed three of the animals. Attendants drove off the dogs, killing one and wounding another. The wounded animal and the other two escaped.

UK Educators Author Book On Supervision

Dr. Frank G. Dickey, dean of the College of Education, and Dr. Harold P. Adams, associate professor of education, are co-authors of a book published last week by the American Book Company, New York City.

All major phases and techniques of supervision are covered in the book, "Basic Principles of Supervision."

The volume is directed toward three groups: undergraduate students who need an understanding of the nature, meaning and techniques of supervision; graduate students who are preparing for supervisory work, and supervisors in service who need a manual or handbook.

According to an advance notice of publication of the book, materials in it "have been successfully used with some 1,000 students in classes in supervision of instruction" at UK by Dean Dickey and Dr. Adams.

Dean Dickey recently returned to the campus after spending most of the past year at Harvard University in special graduate study. Dr. Adams is also assistant director of the UK Bureau of School Service.

Five Callers Work With Folk Dances

Three graduate students and two townspeople are among the callers for this summer's outdoor folk dances, scheduled for 6:30 p.m., CST, each Thursday during the summer session.

The dances, on the driveway next to the Women's Gym, are open to all students, faculty and staff members, and no folk dance experience is necessary to participate.

The student callers are Roscoe Godbey, who teaches elementary school in Elyria, Ohio; Ruby Yocum, who teaches at Berea College Training School; and Pat Napier, from the Stuart-Robinson school in Blackey.

Lexington callers include Jack Todd, faculty member at the College of Agriculture, and Mrs. Anne Wright.

about the schedule when the matter first came up but "now that a schedule has been adopted and approved we expect to play it just that way."

Shortly after the dispute came to light, Dr. Miller was quoted in a dispatch from Gainesville as saying, "I don't see anything for those teams to do except get back on the track and follow the schedule. That's the only logical thing, as I see it."

Mount Transferred; Rodgers Takes Post

Col. Charles M. Mount Jr., professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Kentucky from 1951 until last semester, is deputy camp commander for the 1953 summer camp at Fort Meade, Md.

He will report to the Army War College, Carlisle Barracks, Pa., at the close of the camp.

Col. Henry H. Rodgers of the Department of the Army, Washington, D. C., has been assigned to take Mount's place on the University staff.

Perfect Standings

Not listed with the honor students were 12 part-time students in the UK's College of Education who also attained perfect grades during the semester. They follow:

Alice Butler, Carrie Frisby, Hazel Kazee, Mabel Moore, Margaret Munford, Agnes P. Parker and Irene Vaughan, all of Frankfort; Eileen C. Covington, Lexington; Daphne Hedden, Lawrenceburg; Mary A. Mitchell, Bald Knob, Virginia M. Patrick, Bridgeport, and Louise Rambo, Peaks Mill.
